

HOW TO MAKE BUILDINGS WORK FOR YOUR MISSION

If your church is looking to optimise its buildings or land, Making Property Serve Mission is the definitive resource.

Architect Fred Batterton looks at church property and its impact on mission. He then explores the opportunities that buildings can offer, how to get started, options for financing and outcomes that can be expected.

Covering all building types and with 77 colour illustrations the book has 11 Sections with frequently asked questions and a call to action.

- Define your core business
- How property can serve mission
- Evaluate your assets and opportunities
- Where to find help
- Design considerations
- How to pay for it
- Getting traction to proceed

“A gift to the wider Church.”
Daniel Bullock, Director of Mission & Ministries, Baptist Union of Victoria

“A wealth of insight.”
*Dale Stephenson, Senior Pastor
Crossway Baptist Church*

“This book rekindles our longing to speak the good news with relevance, power and grace.”
Richard Giles, author of Re-pitching the Tent

Making Property Serve Mission* looks at the buildings and land accumulated by the Christian Church and asks, is property enabling the mission of the Church in the twenty-first century? If so, how are churches achieving this aim, and if not, what should be done?

Making Property Serve Mission is available from 22 November 2016 in paperback and ebook.
Paperback RRP $27.99US $34.95AU £21.99UK (234 x 156 mm with 292 pages and 77 colour illustrations)
ISBN 9780995387508. eBook RRP $15.99US $19.99AU $11.99UK ISBN 9780995387515